Quinn-Melvold Vows Exchanged

A double-ring ceremony united Maureen L. Quinn and David J. Melvold in marriage at a nuptial mass in St. Jerome's Catholic Church in Los Angeles on Aug. 24.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert P. Quinn, 5935 Sherbourne Dr., Los Angeles. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred A. Melvold of 15911 Fonthill Ave., Torrance.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of chiffon and lace, with a tiara crown studded with seed pearls and carried white orchids, carnations and stepanotis.

The maid of honor, Miss Maryann Ecker, was dressed in a street length gown of turquoise and carried a bouquet of matching carnations and yellow roses. The bridesmaids, Misses Eileen Stamer, Carolyn Lardizabel, and Paulette Rosa, wore identical street length gowns of turquoise with bouquets of yellow carnations and roses.

Best man was Robert Melvold, brother of the bridegroom, and ushers were: Douglas McNeil, William Seefeldt, and Clem Tibursky, classmates of Serra High School.

Deanna Sue Gibbons was little flower girl.

Misses Jane Harvey and Norine Melvold were in charge of the guest book, at the patio reception for 200 guests, at the home of the bride's parents.

Before leaving the church the young couple followed the traditional custom of placing a bouquet at the Blessed Virgin altar, and knelt for a moment of silent prayer before the statue.

After attending the reception, they left for a honeymoon at Carmel, the bride attired in a true blue light wool suit.

Upon their return, the bridegroom will conclude his final year in electrical engineering at Loyola University, and the bride will continue her employment in the escrow office of the Bank of America. The bridegroom has been employed by Lawndale Concrete Products, Lawndale.

WOMAN IN WHITE

By ETHELYN BATTLES, LVN

A BED BATH is given not only for cleansing, but to improve the circulation, and for its refreshing relaxing effect.

It is given to the patient who is unable to take a shower or tub bath, and should be given daily.

Give bath in a warm room, and place sheet on patient uncovering only one part while washing to prevent chilling. Bath water should be comfortable warm; rinse well and dry thoroughly. Encourage self help, if permitted, for exercise.

During bath observe general condition and appearance of skin. Make a note of your observations and any complaints and report them to the doctor.

BATH PROCEDURE:

1. wash face, neck, ears.
2. Wash chest, abdomen.
3. Place a bath towel under arm; wash — immersing hand in basin of water; do the other arm and hand.

4. Wash each leg and foot in same manner if possible, with towel underneath.

5. change water and wash back, finishing with a back rub. Put a gown or pajamas on patient, care for the nails, and comb hair. Make bed, changing necessary linen; put room in order, and dust with a damp cloth.

PREVENTION OF BED SORES is a constant problem in nursing care of the bedridden or debilitated type of patient. Prevention is important because they are hard to control.

To prevent, keep patient clean, dry, with position changed frequently if permitted. Support back with rolled pillows when turned on side. Lower bedding must be smooth, mattress comfortable. Massage the back with a lotion giving particular attention to area near base of spine, and elbows, heels, also.

Avoid use of strong bleaches as they contribute to "sheet burns." Report reddened areas to the doctor.

Sewing Circles

By BECKY SCHAEFFER

While this column is mainly concerned with the fashions you sew for yourself, it is timely to disown latest designs. Most of these are available in patterns at your favorite counter.

This fall, the feminine waistline is disappearing again, but paradoxically, these styles are only for the girl with a very good figure. Those who are short waisted or a little heavy should avoid them like the plague. Conversely, the girl who can not wear these one piece, unbelted dresses, can wear the two-piece, box jacketed suit.

McCall's 6904 is a versatile pattern which can be used with or without a belt. It is a coat-dress, with hip flaps and long, slim sleeves. The tall girl can wear this without a belt. For the shorter girl, there is a different sleeve (or she can borrow from another pattern) and a belt.

For my important meetings, speaking engagements and so forth, I have done it in black tulle, a material which resembles silk faille, yet is only cotton in a hard, heavy weave. I use pearls and black accessories to make it very formal.

Suit jackets this fall are bulky, with indefinite waistlines, and will need some shoulder padding. There is a beautiful blazer jacket pattern by Butterick with a cut away front which may be used with your favorite pattern. McCalls have those resurrections of the old A-line and trapeze shapes.

Keep your eyes open for bargains in bulky woollens, if you plan to get brave and try the boots everyone is talking about. I suspect that college girls will find them useful, since our family elders are complaining of joint troubles already, and it looks like a cold, wet winter.

For those of us who prefer the conventional, proven styles which we know will do most for our particular figures, let's look around for different fabrics. Often we can mix a lovely mohair (soft, luscious and available) for bulk and a linen, peau de sois or wool where we need smoothness.

Have you seen the new suede yardage? Careful, — it has a nap like corduroy, so be sure to buy enough. But it can be made into a fingertip jacket, warm slacks, or, with a good lining, a beautiful coat. And it's washable (or better still, you can toss it into a cleaning machine!).

TODAY'S HINT

Cut out this list for your wallet, and take it with you when you buy yardage.

In addition to material and pattern, seam binding tape (2 pkgs. for hems), matching thread, cotton or nylon, buttons or button covering kits, belt kit, zipper, and interlining, lace, piping cord, elastic, bias binding tape.
